The balance of trade in favor of this republic, calculated in this manner, is $169,848,871 gold, the distinctly larger than they would have been had the old method of valuation prevailed. What is, however, of greatest interest to the foreign communities resident and trading here, is the remarkable manner in which the state of war in Europe and North America has altered the course of shipments. The United States lead the countries dealing with Argentina at the close of 1917, with imports aggregating $138,000,000 and exports totalling $161,000,000. WILHELM MUEHLON EXILE IN SWITZERLAND

His Disclosure of Events in Germany Just Prior to the Outlook of War Led to His Expulsion By German Government.

Gumliben, Switzerland, Aug. 3 .- "One of the most interesting characters in Switzerland to day is Dr. Wilhelm Muehlon, whose recent revelations of German political and diplomatic secrets of the days before the war-at a time when he was in confidential touch with the high councils of the imperial Ger-man government-led to official surveillance over his movements and finally to his expulsion from his native land. His disclosures, which have created sensations in entente capitals, have been regarded in many quarters as faithful in-terpretations of events which contrib-uted to the outbreak of the war and as chronicle proof that the German emperor's machinations were responsible for the world conflict. They led to a German government statement in the Reich night pushed their way forward in the stag that he was not pathologically responsible, and to-day he lives the life of a retired farmer on the outskirts of a small Swiss village. His personal appearance shows none of the nervous agitation which the Serman authorities have sought to at tribute to him. He declares he has never had to consult a doctor; physically and mentally he seems a man of iron.

Dr. Muehlon was asked to-day how he could be an opponent of militarism and war, particularly the present struggle, and at the same time be a director of Krupp, the greatest war machine in the

"That appears to be inconsistent," he said, "but the explanation is simple. have always been opposed to war, and even to large combinations like Krupps, as my inclinations were toward the wel fare and equality of the people and the adjustment of differences by reason instead of by force. But it was felt desirable to have on the Krupp directorate various shades of opinion, even though not in strict accordance with the war activities of the establishment, so that all views could be expressed and something like common agreement obtained on the many vexing problems presented. To that end I came into the organization, at first in a subordinate poition and later in the directorate. It was stipulated, however, that my activities should be mainly devoted to the branch not engaged in war work, for Krupps has two branches of about equal ize, one devoted to war work and the other to work unconnected with war. Insensibly, however, my work in one branch drew me into the other, as my experience in international affairs led to my being consulted on war arrangements having any international bearing, such as the armament of Turkey."

Dr. Muehlon went on to tell of his

"With Germany sovereign over Europe," he says, "there would be a general scuttering and flight of European races and population to get away from German rule. The remotest corners of Europe would become asylums of refuge. An immense shifting of life's forces would occur. And with Germany paramount in Europe there would be a real migration to the overseas countries."

TOMBSTONE, ARIZONA, BUT SHADOW OF PAST

Bird Cage Opera House, Can-Can Restaurant, Red Light Saloon and Tucson Stage Office Are Mournful Reminders of a Once Lively Town.

Tombstone, Ariz., Aug. 3.-The Bird lage opera house, the Can-Can restaurant, the Red Light saloon and the Tucson stage office remain as relics of Tombstone's one-time glory as a mining camp. These old buildings were once the scenes of the pioneer Arizona mining camp, but are now occupied by bats and are slowly falling into decay.

The Bird Cage opera house was the most famous in the territory. It is a rambling, two-story structure with the glass in the rough board front broken by the elements. A long bar occupies one end of the building, while the piano player's raised platform faces it at the op-posite end. It was on this platform that the famous sign hung which read: "Do not shoot the piano player. He is doing the best he can." A gallery extends around three sides of the opera house and the stage occupies the fourth side. On this stage the most famous variety performers from San Francisco appeared in the old days. Lithographs announcing their coming still hang on the walls of the opera house, the ink still bright upon them. A dumb waiter connects the bar with the gallery above, where drinks were served at tables placed in each of the little rooms which open onto the big dancing floor. Many killings have occurred in the Bird Cage and it has been the scene of a number of western stories of frontier life,

At the Can-Can restaurant steaks once sold for 5 each and men waited in line free from all expenses and insurance to be served, at the height of the Tombstone gold boom. The Red Light saloon was a gambling house and the discarded roulette and faro layouts may be seen stacked in the rear of the big building with its broken bar and mahogany fixtures. CONDITIONS IN THE UKRAINE

Peasants are Filled with Hatred for the Germans and Ready to Begin Hostilties.

Stockholm, Aug. 3 .- Conditions in the Ukraine before the assassination of Field Marshal Von Eichhorn were such as might have been expected to lead up to some such outbreak of violence, judging the description given of them by Zeta Hoeglund, leader of the Swedish Socialist left, in an interview in the Politkon of Copenhagen. Woeglund, who gave the interview before the Eichhorn assassination, had just returned from a visit to Russia, and his account is largely a report of conversa-tions which he had with Russians from the Ukraine. They declared, he says,, that the Germans there were "living in a little hades," that guerilla warfare constantly was in progress, conflicts oc-curred daily in which many persons were killed, while occasional battles took place, lasting several days.

The peasants in one section of the Ukraine have an army estimated to number 25,000, Hoeglund reports. These men he describes as filled with hatred for the Germans and awaiting an auspicious moment to begin hosilities. The peasants elsewhere pursue the policy of burning their grain and destroying the cattle, and acting similarly with regard to other of their possessions rather than have them fall into the hands of the Germans.

The Austrian troops in the country are declared to be at danger's point with the Germans and to have supplied the peasants with arms, including artillery Hoeglund's informants considered what had occurred to be only a foretaste of what might be expected at harvest time, when the peasants, it was predicted, would do everything possible
